I am a 23-year-old designer driven by curiosity and a relentless desire to grow. To me, design is not just about aesthetics; it is a language capable of transforming ideas into tangible connections. My journey has taken me from Palermo, my hometown, to Milan, where I chose to study Communication Design to broaden my horizons and draw inspiration from the unexpected. I do not settle for predefined boundaries. I explore, experiment, and constantly seek new ways to shape what does not yet exist.
